Riding in the Goodyear Blimp!

On Wednesday March 25th, 2015, local Ambassador Girl Scout Emily Fritts and her Mother, Tracey Padula went on a once in a lifetime ride on the Goodyear Blimp in Carson, Ca. Four seats were gifted to the San Gorgonio Girl Scout Council from Jim Ferguson, owner of the Tire Guys. Rides aboard the Goodyear Blimp are by invitation only and cannot be purchased, making this experience even more special.

The seats were awarded to the top 2 girls who sold the most cookies to be donated to a local charity or our Military. Out of 8,000 Girl Scouts selling in her council, Emily sold 636 boxes, the second highest amount of donated cookies. All 636 boxes were donated to Operation Gratitude which mails care packages to our Military, Veterans, and Wounded Warriors. Emily has volunteered with Operation Gratitude located at the Armory in Van Nuys, Ca since 2011.

Being a Girl Scout and selling cookies for 10 years, Emily has developed many relationships with local businesses including the Tire Guys. They have been one of her biggest supporters. Last year for National Girl Scout Cookie Weekend our Council had Cookie Booths at all 4 of the Tire Guys locations with a special promotion of free oil change when you purchased 5 boxes of Girl Scout Cookies. This is just one of the many ways that the owners Jim, Sue and Ed Ferguson have been involved with Emily and the San Gorgonio Girl Scout Council.

It was special to have a female Pilot and very appropriate showing yet another profession for Girl Scouts to think about for their future. Emily is in 11th grade at Grand Terrace High School and is proud to be in the Girl Scouts. Being a Girl Scout has opened up many opportunities and experiences. She finds it very rewarding and enjoys interacting with and representing her community.

Spring Mountain Ranch Construction photos

The new homes in Highgrove are going up fast and some of them are already occupied. Here are some photos taken during the construction.

These homes are in the process of having the wood sheeting installed. That is Blue Mountain in the background.

This 2 story house is ready for the roofing and insulation to be installed.

This house is receiving the stucco and the roofing is ready to be installed.

There is also a lot of landscaping being planted on the hillsides.

This is the intersection of Pigeon Pass Road and Spring Mt. Road.

The Highgrove logo appears on the street signs because all of Spring Mountain Ranch is in Riverside County and in the un-incorporated community of Highgrove.

Phil's Philosophy

by Phil Turner

HENRY'S STORY

In the early 1960's when in my early teens, my grandparents Henry and Maude Turner tearfully related the following story to me. This is essentially an oral history that has been supplemented by reading pertinent materials both, from the Internet and bound volumes. I have taken the liberty of putting my perceptions and conjectures to work to describe what I believe his feelings and perspectives would have been. Please forgive any inaccuracies.

Henry Arlington Turner was born around Custer City, Texas on September 26, 1895. Custer City is a very small farming community in Cooke County in the north central part of Texas, close to the border of Oklahoma, with its county seat in Gainesville about 20 miles away. Custer City was not much of a town then and barely exists now, just a grocery store/mail center and two or three other buildings pertaining to farming. The farmland in this area of Texas is very poor for growing much. Decades later oil would be found, making some families wealthy. But, in the early part of the century poor would correctly describe most of the inhabitants of this area. Henry, an only child was born here on his parent's farm.

Henry's father was a real cowboy who settled down after a life on the range and started farming. A story goes that while traveling home from a cattle drive Henry's dad, Robert, ran into another cowboy who asked to buy his horse in an exchange. Henry's dad told the stranger that his horse was not for sale. At this time the stranger said that it would be better if he went ahead and sold him the horse and introduced himself. At that point he exchanged the horse and received $50 from the stranger. That stranger was Sam Bass, a notorious gunman of the era.

The Henry Turner I was to know was a very kind and patient man. I cannot recall him ever raising his voice, or saying an unkind word about anyone. He was a small man of about 5'6", always appropriately, but casually and neatly dressed. He was soft-spoken with a very good sense of humor. Henry was a great fisherman, preferring to fish for crappie, black bass and catfish in Lake Texoma. He was a wonderful carpenter with a full shop in his home. Henry made many pieces considered family heirlooms. He loved westerns on television primarily to see the horses. He attended the Broadway Church of Christ three times a week.

The main social activity of the area was the church. His parents belonged to The Church of Christ, one of the "big three" churches of the area (Baptist, Methodist, Church of Christ). It was here that Henry was to meet his future wife, Maude Blurton. Maude would put Henry off for years before finally consenting to marry him. Maude was to become mother to two boys, James and John. She loved to talk to her friends on the telephone, and watch Jack LaLane and Art Linkletter on the television. She also loved to have her photograph taken often calling out, "Henry, get the Kodak", during family get-togethers.

In this very rural area of Texas, Henry would meet and develop friendships that would last his entire life. He played dominos with these friends once a week or so until his death. I would often listen to these old friends tell and retell stories and jokes that had a large sprinkling of barnyard humor. Because this area was so very rural and sparsely populated Henry's circle of friends and acquaintances was very small. I never saw Henry take a drink but smoked Winston cigarettes. When he came down with a cold he would switch to Kools, thinking that the menthol was soothing to his throat. I received a letter from home reporting his death, two weeks after the fact, while serving in Viet Nam. In 1915 Henry was 20 years old and rode a horse everywhere.

Giant Pine Tree removed from local residence

This beautiful old tree was just too big and tall and could possibly do substantial damage if it ever fell on this house. It was estimated to be about 100 feet tall and about 3 feet in diameter at the base of the trunk.

In order for the tree to come down, someone had to go up to cut the branches. This close up was taken while the worker was about 3/4 of the way up the tree with the chain saw. Would you want to do this? Cont. on P. 9

HIGHGROVE HAPPENINGS

Giant Pine tree removed

After the major limbs were taken down and fed into the chipper it was time to cut up the large trunk.....

and put it into the truck with a little help of your “friends”.

A strong back was needed to cary the big pieces to the truck.

People living in this area very seldom went into Gainesville, the closest town of any size. To hitch up a wagon, gather up the family and ride 12 miles into town was an all day ordeal. His family did not own an automobile; they owned a total of three horses. One of those horses was strictly a riding horse, his father's. Henry's horse, Lucky, was a combination work and riding horse. Then, as now, one became very attached to their horses. They were like part of the family. Many times riding through lonely rural roads and woods, Lucky was his best and only companion. He talked to Lucky, and each knew the others moods and feelings. Henry didn't like to use Lucky for farm work, but was more often than not, necessary.

In August 1914 war broke out in Europe. To Americans, and especially to Americans living in the most rural areas, this war may as well have been on the moon. President Wilson promised that America would not be drawn into any European wars. The mood in America was one of isolationism, wanting nothing to do with war in Europe. All the combatants believed that victory would be theirs by Christmas. No one foresaw the extent of brutality and hardship that the world would be plunged for four and a half years.

In April 1915 during the second battle of Ypres, the German Army frustrated over the progress of the war introduced poison gas against the British Army. That action was to bring an additional everyday terror to a war that was already becoming the most agonizing in human history. A war that would eventually consume 30 million lives.

Sometime in 1915 or 1916, the Army Quartermaster Corps came to Northern Texas to draft horses. The Army had several specific things that they were looking for in draft horses. They were looking for relatively young, very strong and hearty horses. They were looking for horses that were not pampered and used to foraging if possible. They required horses that had history of no medical problems. Additionally they were interested in horses that were not skittish, or jumpy or adverse to loud noises and confusion. They had simple field test for most of these traits.

When Henry saw the men from the Army arrive he had a bad feeling from the start. He knew that his family needed the money that the Army would pay, but still could not foresee the heartache this arrival would bring.

It quickly became apparent that the only horse that they were interested in was Henry's. Henry's heart was in his throat. He anticipated the worst. Very soon, the soldiers came to a decision, they wanted Lucky. There was little option. The Quartermaster Corps had the power to choose which animals they bought. That combined with the financial needs of his family left them with no option at all. He tearfully had to say goodbye to his beloved companion. His last sight of Lucky was of her trotting behind the Quartermasters wagon, down the dusty road leading away from his farm. I believe they were compensated $12.50.

In April of 1917 the U.S. was finally drawn into the Great War. The U.S. would enter the war "to make the world safe for democracy". The Army would resort to a draft system to fulfill their need for young men.

HIGHGROVE HAPPENINGS

California Dreaming

by Dr. Cynthia Williams

Time has been on my mind a lot lately. I guess it's because I don't have as much of it left in my life as I used to. When I was 20 years old I didn't give it a single thought. Now that I'm seeing the other end of the tunnel of life, I am very aware of the passing of time.

It's said "Time heals all wounds." If you're the vindictive type, sometimes, "time wounds all heels." When we've suffered a loss such as a death or a breakup, others have opinions how much time should pass before it's "time to get over it and move on." Death of a loved one might be allowed a year to get over but after a breakup time is not needed to heal; "get back in the game right away. That's your best revenge." It is such a personal thing.

When our hearts have been broken, looking back, the pain can be as sharp today as it was five years ago. Why do some of us bounce right back but others have a broken heart and can't seem to move forward? Time stops for them.

When and why does time seem to drag on forever? Kids waiting for Christmas morning, waiting for the last bell for summer vacation to start, waiting for their birthday, time seems to drag by so slowly. When does time fly too fast? When we are having fun, when we are on that vacation, when we are on the best date of our lives time-- time goes too fast. We say "Wait! Already? We just got started!" Where did the time go?

Sean Carroll is a theoretical physicist at Caltech where he focuses on theories of cosmology, field theory and gravitation by studying the evolution of the universe. Carroll's book, From Eternity to Here: The Quest for the Ultimate Theory of Time (2010), gives us his theory of time and the universe. "I'm interested in the arrow of time: the fact that the past is different from the future. We remember the past but we don't remember the future. There are irreversible processes. There are things that happen, like you turn an egg into an omelet, but you can't turn an omelet into an egg... the arrow of time, gives us the feeling of progress, the feeling of flowing or moving through time."

"That's a waste of time!" How often are we told that or do we think it? Wasting time is seen as foolish, as if it is a currency you have thrown away. "Time is Money" puts a higher value on time and the waste of it is considered irresponsible. We Americans are known to have an admirable work ethic. Sleep is sometimes seen as a weakness, napping is an offense. Vacations are for the lazy. Science weighs in on the topic of sleep and naps frequently with solid studies proving the necessity. Habits of thought are tough to change, especially in the corporate world where "time is money".

"James Maas, former chairman of the Department of Psychology at Cornell University who is widely credited with coining the term 'power nap,' says people should choose between 20 and 90 minutes for a power nap." A nap of 45 to 60 minutes can result in an increase in memory function, according to researchers at Saarland University in Germany. I learned the value of power naps many years ago when I was in chiropractic college. I was lucky to get six hours of sleep a night and was constantly tired. When I finished a seven hour school day I had about 15 minutes before I had to go to my job for another five or six hours. I would sit in my car in the school parking lot, look at

Obituaries

PAUL F. SEARS May 25, 1952 - March 11, 2015 Paul F. Sears, a long-time employee of RDO Equipment Company in Highgrove, died suddenly on Wednesday, March 11, 2015 of an aortic dissection. He is survived by his wife, Janet Sears; his children, Laura Tardif and Steven Sears, and his step-children, Ian and Benjamin Ballard. He also leaves behind his brothers Karl and John Sears, and his sister Sonja Lundgren. Funeral services were held at All Saints Episcopal Church in Riverside on Friday, March 20, 2015. Ardie worked for Paul prior to 2001 at the John Deere dealership in Highgrove. He was a great boss and we will always have fond memories of Paul and his family.

my watch and tell myself “you have 15 minutes” and close my eyes. My eyes would pop open right at 15 minutes. I would feel more refreshed and ready to push through the rest of the day. I still utilize the power nap.

Daylight Savings Time (DST) has kicked in with the usual noise about the necessity, the questionable benefits, the unproven financial benefits and the general nuisance of it all. This year ten states introduced bills to either eliminate DST or to stay on DST year-round. Currently DST runs from mid-March to mid-November, which seems to suit most people. DST was first envisioned by Benjamin Franklin; of course in his day, people planned their day around available sunlight. Lighting by oil or candle could be expensive (Franklin had “discovered” electricity by then but not how to use it.) The introduction of DST came during WWI as a cost saving measure, but was short lived. For the past 100 years Congress and others have debated it, made changes to the dates, and scheduled it last year-round. Arizona and Hawaii have found the perfect solution: ignore DST and ignore their clocks. The stay on Standard Time year-round.

A saying attributed to a North America Native American sums up the discussion: “Only the white man’s government would be so stupid as to cut a foot off the top of a blanket, sew it onto the bottom, and think they have a longer blanket.”

The middle palm tree is gone from the “Welcome to Highgrove” entry monument

The palm tree in the middle had the top partly separated from the trunk of the tree that leaned over toward the other tree closest to the freeway due to a possible wind storm. Unfortunately the middle tree had to be removed.

It was a hot day for everyone at the Riverside Municipal Airport on March 28, 2015

Even the dog had shoes on to protect his feet from the hot pavement!

The winner for the word search puzzle this month is Abigail Vega. Abigail is 8 years old and is in the 3rd grade at the Grand Terrace Elementary School and her teacher is Mrs. Ruggles. Congratulations to Abigail and good luck to next month's winner. The rules are shown above. Good luck!

Advertising rates

The "Highgrove Happenings" advertising rates are the lowest rates in town. If you have already trained your dog to bring in the paper (like the one on the right) you can be assured that he won't be lifting anything too heavy by bringing in our little newspaper. Some of the other larger newspapers are wasting just too many trees, especially in their Sunday edition. No one should ever ask their dog to lift something that heavy! Our little paper has lots of local news and we take pride in providing you with something free of charge that will fit in the bottom of your birdcage! Give us a call (951) 683 4994 or check out our web site for pricing and sizes of our ads. Go to www.highgrovehappenings.net and click on the contact us page.

Call us !

We have no reporters so we are asking for your help. You can be a reporter by just giving us a call or sending us an E-mail or a picture. Small town news is what we are all about and we want to encourage you to participate. We try to print positive things since there is so much bad news on TV and in other newspapers. Send us a story, take a picture or call us about something that is happening in Highgrove. (951) 683 4994
